NASH BROTHERS
CONSTRUCTION CO., INC.
120 YEARS OF EXCELLENCE

Employee of the Month

Lillian Olchowka

Lillian began working for Nash Brothers during the summer of 1984. Lillian has enjoyed working closely with colleagues through the years and has the respect of all. "We are like a family," Lillian said. "We have our moments but then come back the next day and work through issues." She currently serves as the Accounts Payable Coordinator and serves as the liaison between Nash Brothers and insurance companies. Lillian's attention to detail assists with the accuracy of time and material invoicing. She is always willing to learn new methods of completing tasks and is known for her professionalism.

Lillian volunteers regularly at her church and counts the donations given to the church on Sunday. When asked about her retirement during March, Lillian said she is looking forward to spending time with her husband. They plan to travel more and make plans on a whim! Lillian was not the easiest person to interview. She had difficulty discussing her many contributions to Nash Brothers. When asked for a few last words about her accomplishments, Lillian said, "I couldn't have worked for a better company." Lillian's humble nature and devotion to her job will be greatly missed.

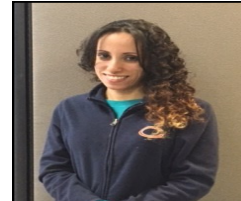

Thank you, Lillian.

CONSTRUCT 2017

Nash Brothers is pleased to announce its participation in the 2017 Construct Program. We look forward to attending the job fair, sharing information about Nash Brothers, and hosting students for job shadowing days. It is an honor to be involved in a program regarded so highly by participants and organizers.

An Introduction to Sara Baggett

Nash Brothers welcomes Sara Baggett to our team. Sara will serve as a full time safety auditor. Sara, a veteran of the Army, was trained as a welder and deployed to Iraq on two occasions. Sara was featured in an article in the magazine titled, Living the Legend. In the article, Staff Sergeant Cody Britton is quoted as saying, "Specialist Baggett is an awesome soldier and probably one of the best welders I've ever seen. She never says no. She always says yes when it comes to a mission or a welding job. She'll go out in sector and weld. She's an awesome troop." Sara explains that one of her most memorable projects was a 10 foot door made out of half-inch steel. She constructed the door to fill an empty spot in a wall separating one of the International Zone's entry control points from downtown Baghdad. Sara spent her days in the Army building anything that helped Soldiers complete their missions. Sara will use her previous experiences to observe and review our work in the field.
